ANA Coin Press – "Collecting Friends: My First Coin Show"

Steve Roach and Dennis Tucker are contributing to a new ANA blog series, "Collecting Friends." They are approaching the series like a conversation between friends. One of them starts with a topic, then the other responds.

"Both of us started collecting when we were little, introduced to coins by a chance encounter with an old coin that sparked our curiosity. One of Steve's interests is coin valuation, and he gravitates towards the intersection of art and coins. Dennis enjoys medals and world coins, and studying modern U.S. coins in the context of older series, what came before."

They start their new series by sharing their first coin show experiences.

The Key to Knowledge

Embrace the limitless power of numismatic literature

The YN Perspective from the June 2022 Numismatist by Kenny Sammut

No wiser words have been spoken than "buy the book before the coin." With the Internet and so much information available at the click of a mouse, some may think books are passé, but I disagree. Although online content has its benefits, there's nothing like holding a book in your hands, knowing hundreds—if not thousands—of hours of research have gone into compiling it.

Numismatic books played a huge role in my blossoming as a young numismatist. Like many other hobbyists, A Guide Book of United States Coins ("The Red Book") was my first cover-to-cover read. Although early on I enjoyed looking at the pictures, as I got older, I came to value the text too.
